

Learn German with all senses

Learn German with all senses- hearing, seeing, understanding and experiencing is the motto of the ADMOVI GmbH. Together with the Centre for Language and Integration- PROSON GmbH, they developed German language courses under the label of PROSONSOFT. The German courses and textbooks intend to impart practical and job market related German language skills.

The focus of linguistic knowledge and skills lies on the following topics: job orientation, dealing with public authorities, filling in blanks, writing application forms and profound job research in the internet.

In addition to regular German courses in everyday life and profession Prosonsoft offers specific German language courses for various professions.

For example in the language course "German in hotels and restaurants" students learn how to serve clients properly, customs in the hotel and restaurant business and the daily tasks at the reception.

In order to learn German, further language courses like "German in office and business", "German course for care work and nursing professions" and "German in cleaning professions" are available for interested students of the German language.

A great number of interactive exercises, spoken texts by native speakers and an extensive exercise book in pdf-format are included in all German courses.

Prosonsoft focuses on individual German learners as well as on German language schools to make use of the language software in their classes. Furthermore language schools are invited to integrate the recently developed Online Academy easily in their homepage for their own purpose.

In close professional collaboration with the Federal Association for Alphabetisation and Basic Education e. V. further topics in German for the acquisition of reading, writing and basic education were developed for adults as well as for adolescents.

As a result the German course "Alphabetisation- Learn reading and writing" was released. This educational software is an appropriate German learning tool to be used supplementary. In 6 sections with many interactive exercises, basic educational contents such as letters, sentence construction, numbers, the time, dates, first rules of arithmetics and prices are taught.

A new product of Prosonsoft is the German learning software named "Sounds, syllables, words" which focuses on the acquisition of reading comprehension. Therefore initial sound tables, various exercises to learn syllables and simple words are included in the product as well as an extensive syllable-box with more than 700 syllables for learning, hearing and practising the german pronunciation.

Above all students may go on holiday with Prosonsoft. The slogan "Never again speechless on holiday" led to the idea to develop a travel-dictionary which is now published on www.travel-dictionary.com. More than 600 key expressions and vocabulary in 11 sections can be exercised in the internet or may be downloaded as a MP3 file to mobile phones or MP 3 players. The travel language courses in German, English, French and Spanish can be easily combined among each other and are presented by native speakers.
